

“Association of the Year” and “Rising Star Association” - Double Win for Morison International!

Morison International enjoyed the recognition of the global accounting industry at this year’s International Accounting Bulletin awards when it won both “Association of the Year” and “Rising Star Association”.

Morison International was judged to have performed particularly well in recent years, “eclipsing its rivals” in member firm and client satisfaction, as well as delivering a good financial performance, consistent growth and significant developments in key geographies.

CEO, Liza Robbins, said:

“We are delighted to have won both “Association of the Year” and “Rising Star Association”. The former award recognises our considerable success in key strategic areas and the latter award pays testament to our future ambitions. I would like to congratulate our member firms, and thank them for making these awards happen.”

The awards, sponsored by Aon insurers, attracted over 100 nominations from all over the world, and were presented at a live event held in London on Thursday 8 March, 2012.

The judging panel comprised of former BDO Global Chief Executive Jeremy Newman, ACCA Technical Director Sue Almond, London City Lawyer Jane Howard and International Accounting Bulletin Editor Arvind Hickman.
